Kim brings a people-first approach to her work at CPN Legal, where she is known for being dependable, supportive, and always willing to go the extra mile to ensure work is done accurately. She is passionate about helping employees understand their paychecks, knowing that payroll can often be confusing and overwhelming. Her career in payroll began unexpectedly when she stepped in to help while a coworker was on maternity leave, an opportunity that sparked a lasting interest in the field and set her on a rewarding professional path.

Kim is deeply proud of raising her son, which she considers her most meaningful accomplishment. She enjoys staying active at the gym and has a special passion for dogs and animal rescue. Influenced early on by a family member working in finance and accounting, she continues to embrace growth and new challenges in her role. Clients appreciate her dedication, attention to detail, and commitment to doing things right, making her a trusted and approachable professional to work with.
